SHIPPERS DESIRE CLASS RATES FOR MOUNTAIN REGION

Arizonans Fear Decision of Supreme Court Will Be Nullified.

Phoenix, Ariz., July 18.—Grave danger exists according to corporate commissioners of P. A. Jones, that the recent decision of the supreme court upholding the interstate commerce commission in the intermountain rate cases, will be nullified. It is time, Jones declares, for the Rocky Mountain states to get together and combat a plan which the railroads have already formulated.

This plan is to apply to the interstate commerce commission for permission to apply class rates instead of commodity rates to a long list of articles shipped to the Rocky mountain region. Commissioner Jones fears that the proper representations, in opposition to the applications of the railroads, will not be made at Washington, and that the plan will succeed.

To Meet in Chicago.

The details are to be arranged, according to information secured by Jones, at a meeting of traffic men in Chicago next week. Ostensibly the meeting is to be held for the purpose of arranging a schedule of rates to comply with the intermountain rate order. The campaign of the railroads at Washington early in October.

Years ago the I. C. C. ruled that the railroads had no right to charge higher rates from the east to Rocky mountain points than to the Pacific coast. Coast cities have been enjoying preferential rates on the theory that water competition justified lower tariffs to those points.

Reversed Commerce Court.

The commerce court, since abolished, reversed the interstate commerce commission, but the supreme court reversed the commerce court.

Article 4 of the intermountain rate order states that rates to intermediate points cannot be higher than to the coast, except in certain special instances prescribed by the interstate commerce commission. Railroad attorneys contended before the supreme court that the I. C. C. had the power to make blanket exemptions for the entire Rocky mountain region, but this contention was not upheld.

In October the railroads will present to the I. C. C. a long list of receiving points and of commodities. They will assert that they should be permitted to charge class rates instead of commodity rates on the commodities named because of small movements to the Rocky mountain region, or of excessive water competition.

At the present time nearly everything is shipped from the east and middle west to Arizona at class rates. This state enjoys few commodity rates. On the other hand, nearly everything goes to California at commodity rates and as a result that state enjoys freight rates that average lower than those paid in Arizona.
